Newspapers the Best.

"Without deprecating the value of any of the good advertising mediums, for there are many," said Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr., in a speech before the New England Dry Goods Association, "I wish to state emphatically and without qualification, that the newspaper is the best and cheapest advertising medium for the retail advertiser, and is the only local medium worthy of being called indispensable. I cannot too forcibly impress upon you the intrinsic value of newspaper advertising space. I base my opinion upon twenty-five years of actual experience in weighing advertising values. I am speaking through the head of experience and not through the hat of conceit, nor have I any self interest whatsoever. It makes no difference to me whether you advertise in the newspaper or in any other way, or at all.

"The newspaper, from every standpoint, logically, psychologically and practically, is the most natural advertising medium. Advertising belongs to the newspaper. The reader buys the newspaper for the advertising as well as for the news; and many a woman buys it almost exclusively for the advertising she expects to find in it.

"Something for nothing is not business, nor is it good advertising.

"That which we get for nothing, whether it be a free calendar or a free newspaper, receives little consideration. If I were a dry goods merchant I would rather have my advertisement in 1,000 copies of the Boston papers paid for by the readers than to have the same advertisement in 10,000 sample copies of the same paper. Because the reader pays for the paper, he proposes to get his money's worth, and he cannot get his money's worth unless he reads that paper, and he reads the advertisements because they are a part of that paper.
